

Health, Safety and Wellbeing

Goulburn-Murray Water is Australia's largest rural water authority. We are responsible for managing around 70% of Victoria's stored water resources, around 50% of Victoria's underground water supplies and operates Australia's largest irrigation delivery network. GMW in undertaking its operations is committed to providing workers, customers and members of the public with a healthy and safe environment.

At GMW, the safety and wellbeing of our staff, contractors and members of the public are our highest priority. GMW will achieve the lowest risk as far as reasonably practicable for all of our activities, and this will take priority over our other business objectives. This will be achieved through our systems, processes and people – our culture and our leadership.

Accountability for health, safety and wellbeing lies with all of us through personal commitment and involvement of everyone working with us. GMW has no tolerance for risks that could cause serious injury or harm, and all our people are expected to demonstrate safety leadership and role model safety behaviours.

Our leaders will provide adequate resources to ensure working environments that are as far as is reasonably practicable safe and without risks to health, safety and wellbeing. Our people will at all times take reasonable care for their own health, safety and wellbeing and that of others who may be affected by their actions or omissions at work.

Our leaders will encourage open communication, consultation and empower our people to minimise risk, while promoting innovation and involvement in the development and improvement of a strong safety culture.
